In addition to being an honors student, he earned All-State and Conference Player of the Year honors in baseball, basketball and football. As a senior in 1991, he was named North Carolina Athlete of the Year. He attracted the attention of many colleges before choosing to attend Wake Forest, where he started at quarterback and was a key contributor to back-to-back ACC championship basketball teams. LaRue also played collegiate baseball for one season, becoming just the second player in ACC history to play three sports in the same year. As a senior, Rusty broke several NCAA and ACC records for passing, including 55 completions in a game. He played professionally in the NBA, appearing in 98 career games, and was a member of the Chicago Bulls 1998 NBA championship team. He also played in the NBA with the Utah Jazz as well as overseas in Russia and Italy.

After his playing career, Rusty began coaching and ran a successful basketball academy in the Triad which served over 2000 kids annually. He previously coached basketball at the high school and collegiate level, including several years as an assistant at his alma mater, Wake Forest. In 2014, Rusty began his career with Dairy-O Restaurants. After opening the Kernersville location as an Owner/Operator, he moved up to the Corporate Office as COO in March of 2018. He currently resides in Lewisville, NC with his wife Tammy, and has four children.

Mace and Medallion

The ceremonial mace is a commencement symbol which signifies the right of the college administration to confer degrees on its graduates. The mace is used to lead the commencement procession, carried by the recipient of the Excellence in Teaching Award at Forsyth Technical Community College, and conveys respect for the integrity of the college and dedication of the faculty. The presence of a mace in ceremonial processions dates back to the Middle Ages and was often used as a means of protecting the king and as a symbol of his authority. The mace has evolved over time and has come to represent leadership. Universities and colleges have used a mace in their commencement ceremonies since the 15th century.

Our mace was designed by the students and faculty of the Engineering Technologies Department for our 2019 Commencement Celebration.

The President's Medallion is another symbol that dates back to the Middle Ages. It is customarily worn during academic ceremonies, such as commencement, as part of the President's regalia to signify a badge of office. The current President's medallion was created at Forsyth Tech's Center for Advanced Manufacturing utilizing industrial-grade 3D printing technology.

The tradition of academic regalia worn by faculty and staff during commencement dates back to university attire from the 12th and 13th centuries. Academic dress has been used in the United States since colonial times. In 1895, an intercollegiate commission in the United States adopted a standardized code for the use of academic gowns, hoods and caps, which included regulating the cut, style and materials of gowns.

The bachelor's gown is a simple style that is usually the color of the graduating college and has pointed sleeves. The master's gown is similar to the bachelor's except for the long sleeves with square ends that hang below the elbow. The doctor's gown is more elaborate and has velvet panels down the front and around the neck with bell-shaped sleeves.

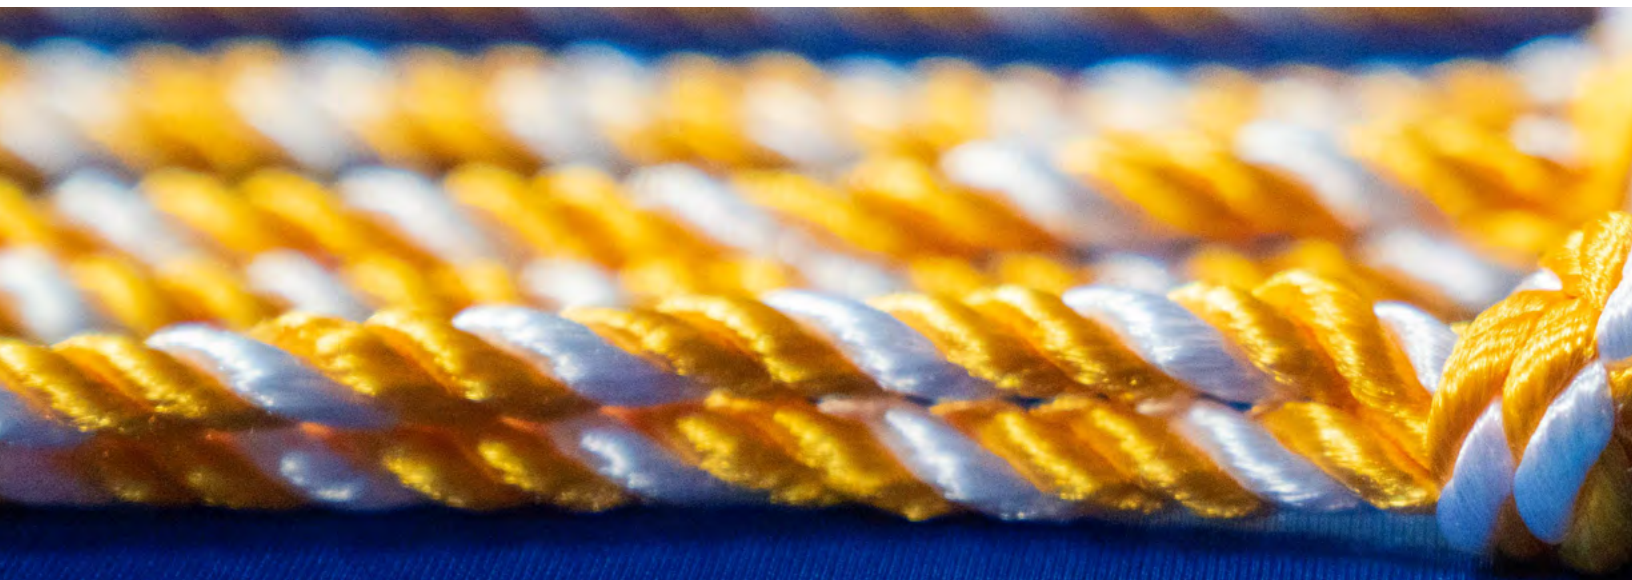

While the academic hood was originally created to protect the wearer from foul weather, we now use the hood to identify the degree, and the length indicates which degree it represents: 3½ feet for the master's and 4 feet for the doctoral degree. Hoods are lined with the official color of the college or university conferring the degree, which explains why the commencement ceremony exhibits such a vast array of colors and pageantry as faculty and staff enter the arena.

The color of trimming identifies the major field of learning on the hood: maize for Agriculture, orange for Applied Sciences and Arts, brown for Architecture, drab for Business, light blue for Education, orange for Engineering, brown for Fine Arts, purple for Law, white for Liberal Arts, blue for Mass Communication and Media Arts, pink for Music, dark blue for Philosophy, peacock blue for Public Administration, salmon for Public Health, gold for Science, and citron for Social Work.

The mortarboard is the cap generally worn with academic regalia with a long tassel fastened to the middle point on the top of the cap. A tam and tassel may be worn by those with a doctor's degree.
